New Iron Bridges Over Jordan River

Bridge With New Street to be Opened Will Develop New Farming Area and Make Shorter Cut to Lehi.

A new steel bridge is to be built over Jordan. It will be in section 12, about midway between the present steel bridge on the road leading to Cedar Valley and the Interurban railroad bridge. The street leading west from the state road, immediately north of Judge Beck's home, will be extended to meet with the street running east from Nephi Slater's home about forty rods north of Thomas College, and this street will be extended to the river. The bridge will be at the end of this new street, the opposite end being on land now owned by James Allred.

The county commissioners are now advertising for bids for constructing the bridge. The bids will be opened on September 10th, and work on it will commence soon after.

The specifications call for an all steel bridge with a span 120 feet between the piers. There will be six panels in the 120 foot span, each of them 20 feet square, which means that the bridge will be 20 feet high and 20 feet wide, 16 feet in the clear. It is well trussed and will have a dead weight of 750 pounds per linear foot, capable of carrying a live weight of double this amount. A guard rail of steel facing two and one-half feet wide is provided for on either side. The floor of the bridge will be of 3 x 10 inch Oregon Fir, with 4 x 6 inch wheel guards.

The structure will rest on four concrete piers, each four feet in diameter, 20 feet long and incased in quarter inch steel. Under each pier will be four 20 foot wood pilings, on which the concrete will rest. The concrete is to be 1 part cement, 3 parts sand and 5 parts gravel.

The opening of the new street and construction of the bridge will be a big convenience to the new farming district which has developed over Jordan of recent years. It will give most of the land owners, north of Cedar Fort road, a shorter way to come to their homes in town, and materially assist in developing that part of the country. Already there is talk of a new townsite being opened in that locality.

The commissioners say that later it is the County's intention to build another bridge across the river opposite the Interurban station at Kirkham.

Remarkable Escape

Tuesday, while a granary was being moved from T. J. Powell's place a block south of Main street, his little two-year-old baby had an escape from death which was little short of miraculous. Workmen had placed the granary on two telephone poles on skids. The little one was playing behind the granary and as the horses turned the granary, one of the skids caught the baby, rolling it underneath the long heavy timber. The men tried to pry it up with a lever, and then endeavored to extricate the child by twisting it off with the horses. Failing in both attempts, they secured a shovel and hurriedly dug beneath and pulled it out.

By this time the child was unconscious and apparently dead. The men with the baby jumped on the running gears of a wagon and drove at break neck speed to the local hospital. Strange as it may seem, the baby was soon resuscitated and before night

Anti White Slave Association Formed

The lectures on white slavery by Dr. Esserts, traveling representative of the national organization, increased in attendance each session and by special request a fourth session was held in the Tabernacle Sunday evening.

A good sized membership was secured here and at the session held Friday evening a local branch of the Anti White Slavery Society was formed, with Bishop Andrew Field as chairman, and Wm. Wing, George A. Goates, Mrs. G. L. Stookey and Mrs. Clara Goates as the other members of the executive committee. The committee will be called together in the near future and a line of action be mapped out.

Five Pigs

It is a pleasure to draw attention to people who are trying to grow better stock or improve the country. Abe Mayberry has a bunch of Berkshire pigs that are a pleasure to look at. His two week old little ones appear to be a month old, and Abe says their mother has reared 18 this year, which bring from $4 to $10 each, and the sow herself but two years of age, with a little feeding would sell for $50 for pork. His whole herd has cost him but about 50 cents per month for mill stuff, the balance of the feed being largely cucumbers.
